'Keeping close after the Dutch soldiers and Afghan citizens
Mariëlle van Uiterter shows both sides of the Mission in Uruzgan.
A quirky vision of a professional with her own mission.'
Trouw

'The work of Mariëlle van Uiterter makes painfully clear what a simple stroke on a governance document can mean to ordinary people'.
Robert Theunissen, Editor in chief Zoom.nl

'The encounter between the 21st century and the Middle Ages has never been captured so well as in Bye Bye Bullshit.
This book of Mariëlle van Uiterter is therefore a valuable and also wonderful addition to all publications so far.'
(Peter ter Velde, NOS Journaal and author of Kabul & Kamp Holland)

'With her camera Mariëlle van Uiterter registers superfine how incredibly small the dividing line between life and death, between hope and despair was for the Dutch troops and the Afghan citizens during these last months of the mission.'
Charles Sanders, reporter De Telegraaf

'Mariëlle van Uiterter's photographs from Afghanistan offer us a raw, powerful, and stark view of life and death in an area of the world we know too little about,
and an occupation - soldiering - we prefer to ignore.'
